The First Prayer

for voice and piano

(2022)

Performance Notes

New tempos markings with no preceding accelerando/ritardando should feel abrupt, otherwise one tempo should transform smoothly and organically into the next over the full duration indicated. Similarly, most dynamic changes are buffered by a crescendo/decrescendo and should occur smoothly, and should be read as indicative of the shape of the phrase. For the pianist, the two "Turbulent" sections are opportunities for virtuosic liberties, to be played with vigour. An ambitious tempo for the accelerandos is welcome, though the sudden changes in dynamics and tempo, and the articulation of individual notes, should be prioritized over speed.

Duration ca. 10:00

Program Notes

"The First Prayer" contemplates the essence and origins of love and hatred, and of the idea of a higher power that has been conceived of across geography and cultures. Diatonic harmonies paired with words of comfort and familiarity contrast with more symmetrical harmonic systems, such as whole-tone and hexatonic scales, where chromaticism complicates the melody to reflect the sincere progression of the text.
